Peach is the only airline serving Chubu Airport that operates daily flights to Seoul Gimpo International Airport, seven times a week.

Seoul Gimpo International Airport is a very convenient airport with access to downtown Seoul city in about 25 minutes by train. The South Korea route was Peach's first international flight from Osaka (Kansai) to Seoul (Incheon) which inaugurated service in May 2012. Currently, the number of flights serviced to Seoul per day is the highest* among Japanese airlines. Since inaugurating service in 2012, the cumulative number of passengers on the Korea route has reached approximately 5.8 million by the end of last year, making it one of Peach's most popular international routes with many customers using it. Additionally, this year marks the 60th anniversary of the normalization of diplomatic relations between Japan and South Korea, and this new route will be the second international route from Nagoya, which also marks the 5th anniversary of the inauguration of Peach's Nagoya (Chubu) route. With the opening of the new Nagoya (Chubu) route, there will be a total of five routes: three domestic routes and two international routes, further expanding the number of travel options. Peach will continue to serve as a bridge between Asia, boosting the traffic between Japan and South Korea, contributing to the revitalization of relations between the two countries.

The Nagoya (Chubu) - Seoul (Gimpo) route will increase the number of flights to 14 per week (two round trips per day) from Tuesday, August 26.
